this volume presents radically divergent interpretations of kant from feminist perspectives some essays see kant as having contributed significantly to theories of rationality and autonomy in ways that can further feminist projects other essays argue that kant is a preeminent exponent of patriarchal views and that gender hierarchies are inscribed in the very structure of his theories of morality and aesthetic judgment but both sympathizers and critics challenge the accepted topography of kantian philosophy by which central philosophical concerns are defined as those that are abstract universal and transcendental instead these feminist writers resituate kantian questions in the politics of everyday life and emphasize the embodied nature of knowledge morality and aesthetics they analyze dilemmas that face concentrate subjects involving issues of friendship collective responsibility xenophobia and colonialism among others the question at the heart of the book is what might an education with self care and care for others look like juxtaposing self understanding through the method of currere and the historical character of hakbeolism a concept indigenous to korea referring to a kind of social status people achieve based on a shared academic background this book articulates how subjective reconstruction of self in conjunction with historical study can be transformative and how this can be extended to social change articulating how having one's own standard can be a way of making one's life a work of art the author looks at how Korean schooling exercises coercive care disconfirmation and the whip of love for the children's own good emphasis is given to the internalized status of these practices in both students and teachers and to teachers and parents culpability not only in exercising but also in reproducing these practices through themselves going beyond describing and analysing the educational problem of academic intellectual achievement oriented education based on aggressive competition this book suggests ways to address these issues through autobiography using the method of currere to reconstruct one's subjectivity and an ethic of care
