les amis africains et les questions d'argent a débuté sous la forme de notes à l'intention des occidentaux qui voyageaient et travaillaient en Afrique pour leur présenter un point de vue permettant de comprendre les coutumes et les cultures autres que celles de leurs pays d'origine. Maranz utilise ses expériences en Afrique pour faire ressortir la manière dont les différentes cultures gèrent l'argent, le temps et les relations personnelles et la façon dont ces différences entraînent quelques fois des frictions et des malentendus. Il incite le lecteur à réfléchir aux différents objectifs des systèmes économiques africains et occidentaux et partage quatre-vingt-dix observations spécifiques qu'il a faites sur l'argent lorsqu'il vivait en Afrique.

between a d 200 and 1000 sponsorship at baptism evolved from a simple liturgical act into a mechanism for the creation of enduring relationships regarded as especially holy forms of kinship combining anthropological, historical, theological, and literary approaches. Joseph Lynch presents a comprehensive analysis of the origins and development in western society of this spiritual kinship because of its solemnity and adaptability such kinship gradually took its place alongside blood and marital ties as a fundamental part of medieval society continuing to expand in high and late medieval Europe and to flourish even in modern times particularly in Latin America. Professor Lynch traces the liturgical practices and theological beliefs undergirding sponsorship and examines its social purposes including sacralization of personal friendships, creation of client-patron relationships, extension of marital taboos, provision of protectors for the young, fostering of trust among adults, and dissemination of religious instruction. In the process he offers a rich array of insights into the church's role in the passage of western society from antiquity to the middle ages. Joseph H. Lynch is professor of history and former director of the Center for Medieval and Renaissance Studies at Ohio State University. He is author of Simoniacal Entry into Religious Life: From 1000 to 1260, a social, economic, and legal study.
