philosopher mike w martin here examines the meaning of happiness by connecting it to the philosophical notion of the good life in this profound and yet accessible book john kekes discusses moral wisdom a virtue essential to living a morally good and personally satisfying life he advances a broad nontechnical argument that considers the adversities inherent in the human condition and assists in the achievement of good lives the possession of moral wisdom kekes asserts is a matter of degree more of it makes lives better less makes them worse exactly what is moral wisdom however and how should it be sought ancient greek and medieval christian philosophers were centrally concerned with it by contrast modern western sensibility doubts the existence of a moral order in reality and because we doubt it and have developed no alternatives we have grown dubious about the traditional idea of wisdom kekes returns to the classical greek sources of western philosophy to argue for the contemporary significance of moral wisdom he develops a proposal that is eudaimonistic secular anthropocentric pluralistic individualistic and agonistic he understands moral wisdom as focusing on the human effort to create many different forms of good lives although the approach is aristotelian the author concentrates on formulating and defending a contemporary moral ideal the importance of this ideal he shows lies in increasing our ability to cope with life's adversities by improving our judgment in chapters on moral imagination, self knowledge and moral depth. Kekes calls attention to aspects of our inner life that have been neglected because of our cultural inattention to moral wisdom. He discusses these inner processes through the tragedies of Sophocles which can inspire us with their enduring moral significance and help us to understand the importance of moral wisdom to living a good life.

What makes a life fulfilling and meaningful? The simple but surprising answer is relationships. The stronger our relationships, the more likely we are to live happy, satisfying and overall healthier lives. In fact, the Harvard study of adult development reveals that the strength of our connections with others can predict the health of both our bodies and our brains as we go through life. When Tom and Barbara Good decide to exchange the pressures of the rat race for an alternative, more sustainable way of living, they set about turning their suburban home in Surbiton into a model of self-sufficiency. They grow their own fruit and veg, keep livestock in the garden, make their own clothes and even generate their own electricity from manure. It's the good life for them, but not for Margo and Jerry Leadbetter, who live next door and are desperately trying to maintain the Surbiton status quo.
