the resurrection of jesus christ from the dead is one of the most critical events in history along with his bible study incarnation and death the implications of which are far reaching for humanity this book focuses on the biblical presentation of the resurrection the content has been divided into six parts as follows in the resurrection defined we explore what is involved in the concept of resurrection in particular that the resurrection necessarily involved the lord s physical body is stressed the resurrection foretold focuses on the occasions when the lord spoke in advance of his death and resurrection and how his disciples reacted to these revelations the resurrection fulfilled contains the heart of the book dealing in detail with the post resurrection appearances of the lord jesus christ the importance of these appearances is considered along with the practical lessons for christians today the resurrection preached deals with the focus on the resurrection in the preaching in acts of both peter and paul the preaching of these two apostles is studied as a worthy pattern for the modern day gospel preacher particularly the focus given to the resurrection the resurrection taught contains an exploration of some doctrinal implications of the resurrection of christ in the epistles on the new testament this will be found to be both practical and far reaching the resurrection typified explores some old testament types of the resurrection of christ the resurrection of jesus christ is one of the best attested facts of history but believing in the resurrection is one thing knowing what it means is another although much has been written about the apologetics of the resurrection little has been written about its theological meaning this book reveals the hidden depths of the theological significance and ongoing relevance of the resurrection of jesus christ for our being our salvation christian life ethics and our future hope the following pages contain the substance of a discourse on the resurrection of the body preached in erie pa late in the fall of 1845 the occasion of the sermon was the introduction of numerous copies of a book written by george bush professor of hebrew in the new york university the avowed object of the book is to overthrow the commonly received opinion of the resurrection of the body these books were extensively circulated and read some embraced the new theory others found their faith weakened by the bewildering speculations of the learned author under these circumstances believing the error inculcated in the book to be fundamental that it aimed a fatal blow at the very vitals of christianity that it led directly in all its tendencies to infidelity a refutation was undertaken and the following discourse in three parts delivered during three successive sabbaths advertisement

n t wright takes us on a fascinating journey through ancient beliefs about life after death from the shadowy figures who inhabit homer s hades through plato s hope for a blessed immortality to the first century where the greek and roman world apart from the jews consistently denied any possibility of resurrection we then examine ancient jewish beliefs on the same subject from the bible to the dead sea scrolls and beyond this sets the scene for a full scale examination of early christian beliefs about resurrection in general and that of jesus in particular beginning with paul and working through to the start of the third century wright looks at all the evidence and asks why did the christians agree with jewish resurrection belief while introducing into it across the board significant modifications to answer this question we come to the strange and evocative easter stories in the gospels and asks whether they can have been late inventions wright seeks the best historical conclusions about the empty tomb and the belief that jesus really did rise bodily from the dead recognizing that it was this belief that caused early christians to call jesus son of god in doing so they posed a political challenge as well as a theological one these challenges retain their power in the twenty first century this volume highlights the sustained focus in acts on the resurrection of christ bringing clarity to the theology of acts and its purpose brandon crowe explores the historical theological and canonical implications of jesus s resurrection in early christianity and helps readers more clearly understand the purpose of acts in the context of the new testament canon he also shows how the resurrection is the fulfillment of the old testament scriptures this is the first major book length study on the theological significance of jesus s resurrection in acts the bible gives instances of two men being translated to heaven without dying at all of some dead people who were raised to life only to die again but we never read of a resurrected man ascending to heaven save in the one exception of our lord he died and was raised the third day and having abundantly proved his resurrection to his doubting disciples he ascended to glory and set himself down at the right hand of god such a claim is stupendous prove it and you prove christianity disprove it and you disprove christianity the truth of christianity hinges on the fact of the resurrection of our lord apart from the resurrection of christ there can be no salvation no forgiveness of sins no justification and no gift of eternal life in short no christianity remove the central stone of an arch and the whole structure falls to the ground so it is with the deity and manhood of our lord jesus christ his spotless life his atoning death his resurrection and his ascension these are all linked up together making one complete whole if one part fails the whole of christianity fails so wrote algernon pollock that indefatigable apologist from the pulpit and in print wherever he saw the christian faith under attack beginning with an overview of the bible s detailing of the facts and consequences of christ s resurrection the author briefly considers old testament prophecies of the resurrection before reviewing christ s own prophecies of his death he continues with an examination of the person life and death of the lord jesus christ and their connection with his resurrection he then considers the circumstances of the lord s resurrection before an extensive discussion of all the recorded appearances of the risen christ an examination of objections to the inspiration of the gospel accounts is followed by a look at some theories presented in denial of the resurrection significant reference is made to an interesting mid 18th century study entitled observations on the conversion and apostleship of st paul in a letter to gilbert west esq by sir george lyttleton later lord lyttleton baron of frankley lyttleton and west set out to disprove christianity by proving two key points of christianity false lyttelton that st paul did not convert to christianity and west that jesus never rose from the dead however as their researches progressed they both became convinced of the truth of the events they sought to disprove the author himself convinced of the fact of the resurrection of the lord jesus christ plainly sets out his reasons in this book karl barth saw chapter 15 as the center of 1st corinthians arguing that a misunderstanding of the resurrection underlies all the problems in corinth in this volume he develops his view of biblical eschatology asserting that chapter 15 is key to understanding the testimony of the new testament barth understood the last things not as an end to history but as an end history with which any period is faced he only speaks of last things who would speak of the end of all things of their end understood plainly and fundamentally of a reality so radically superior to all things that the existence of all things would be utterly and entirely based upon it alone and thus in speaking of their end he would in truth be speaking of nothing else than their beginning page 104
