excerpt from a history of american literature since 1870 american literature in the larger sense of the term began with irving and if we count the sketch book as the beginning the centennial year of its birth is yet four years hence it has been a custom especially among the writers of text books to divide this century into periods and all have agreed at one point in the mid thirties undoubtedly there began a new and distinct literary movement the names given to this new age which corresponded in a general way with the victorian era in england have been various it has been called the age of emerson the transcendental period the national period the central period national it certainly was not but among the other names there is little choice just as with the victorian era in england not much has been said as to when the period ended there has been no official closing though it has been long evident that all the forces that brought it about have long since expended themselves and that a distinctively new period has not only begun but has already quite run its course it has been our object to determine this new period and to study its distinguishing characteristics we have divided the literary history of the century into three periods denominating them as the knickerbocker period the new england period and the national period and we have made the last to begin shortly after the close of the civil war with those new forces and new ideals and broadened views that grew out of that mighty struggle the field is a new one no other book and no chapter of a book has ever attempted to handle it as a unit it is an important one it is our first really national period all american autochthonic it was not until after the war that our writers ceased to imitate and looked to their own land for material and inspiration the amount of its literary product has been amazing there have been single years in which have been turned out more volumes than were produced during all of the knickerbocker period the quality of this output has been uniformly high about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works chapter i on a brilliant day in may in the year 1868 a gentleman was reclining at his ease on the great circular divan which at that period occupied the centre of the salon carré in the museum of the louvre this commodious ottoman has since been removed to the extreme regret of all weak kneed lovers of the fine arts but the gentleman in question had taken serene possession of its softest spot and with his head thrown back and his legs outstretched was staring at murillo s beautiful moon borne madonna in profound enjoyment of his posture he had removed his hat and flung down beside him a little red guide book and an opera glass the day was warm he was heated with walking and he repeatedly passed his handkerchief over his forehead with a somewhat wearied gesture and yet he was evidently not a man to whom fatigue was familiar long lean and muscular he suggested the sort of vigor that is commonly known as toughness but his exertions on this particular day had been of an unwonted sort and he had performed great physical feats which left him less jaded than his tranquil stroll through the louvre he had looked out all the pictures to which an asterisk was affixed in those formidable pages of fine print in his bädeker his attention had been strained and his eyes dazzled and he had sat down with an æsthetic headache he had looked moreover not only at all the pictures but at all the copies that were going forward around them in the hands of those innumerable young women in irreproachable toilets who devote themselves in france to the propagation of masterpieces and if the truth must be told he had often admired the copy much more than the original his physiognomy would have sufficiently indicated that he was a shrewd and capable fellow and in truth he had often sat up all night over a bristling bundle of accounts and heard the cock crow without a yawn but raphael and titian and rubens were a new kind of arithmetic and they inspired our friend for the first time in his life with a vague self mistrust christopher newman a self made american millionaire in france falls in love with the beautiful aristocratic claire de bellegarde her family however taken aback by his brash american manner rejects his proposal of marriage when newman discovers a guilty secret in the bellegardes past he confronts a moral dilemma should he expose them and thus gain his revenge james s masterly early work is at once a social comedy a melodramatic romance and a realistic novel of manners for more than seventy years penguin has been the leading publisher of classic literature in the english speaking world with more than 1 700 titles penguin classics represents a global bookshelf of the best works throughout history and across genres and disciplines readers trust the series to provide authoritative texts enhanced by introductions and notes by distinguished scholars and contemporary authors as well as up to date translations by award winning translators this historical treatment of the development of the great american novel expands upon van doren s chapters on fiction in the cambridge history of american literature the american is a novel by henry james originally published as a serial in the atlantic monthly in 1876 77 and then as a book in 1877 the novel is an uneasy combination of social comedy and melodrama concerning the adventures and misadventures of christopher newman an essentially good hearted but rather gauche american businessman on his first tour of Europe Newman is looking for a world different from the simple harsh realities of 19th century American business he encounters both the beauty and the ugliness of Europe and learns not to take either for granted the core of the novel concerns Newman's courtship of a young widow from an aristocratic Parisian family
